

I am in favor of not soliciting strangers, but we are an insurance agents association, and they depend on our sending them information about educational programs without their specifically requesting them. It will be an inconvenience to them if we cannot continue to do that. Elsie Reamy